chain.

31. Same as 17th row.

Repeat from 2d row to length required.

A handsome and durable scarf has the insertion made of crochet-, or other heavy thread, white or ecru to match the linen used for the hemstitched strips each side, •which should be of crash or other coarse linen, to correspond with the thread. The strips may be of the same width as the insertion, or wider, according to width of scarf desired. A very handsome bedspread is formed of strips of linen and insertion set together in this way; and in finer thread the insertion is an attractive finish for towels and other articles.

The ends of the scarf are finished with fringe, as follows: Fasten in at one corner, * chain 3, miss space of 3 stitches, fasten with a double; repeat. It is an excellent plan to punch tiny holes in the edge of hem with a stiletto, for inserting the crochet-hook.

Wind thread 10 times over a card ten inches wide — or according to width of fringe wanted; slip off, double, put the loop through the 3 chain and knot; repeat. Cut the ends of thread, take 5 threads from 1st strand and 5 from next, knot together about three-fourths of an inch below the 1st knot, knot remaining 5 threads with 1st 5 of next strand, and repeat.
