Child's Knitted Jacket

As Shown On Front Cover

This lovely jacket knitted in plain stockinette stitch with a band of garter stitch around edge and on sleeves, was made of Lily Soft Spun Yarn in white (three 150-yard balls); the design is worked in duplicate stitch using embroidery floss—one skein each of pink, light pink and medium green. An attractive pink trim in open picot stitch completes the edge. A small amount of pink Soft Spun Yarn is needed for trim. Four small pearl buttons are required for the fastening. You will need one pair each of number 2 and 3 knitting needles and a number 7 steel crochet hook for the crochet trim. Any other desired color combinations may be made. The directions are for a six months to one year size. There is no shoulder seam in this garment.

Gauge: Using number 3 needles.
7 stitches equal one inch.
9 rows equal one inch.

Abbreviations: K (knit); p (purl); sts (stitches); dec (decrease); inc (increase); lp (loop); sc (single crochet); ch (chain); p (picot); to make garter st—k every row.

Back—With white, cast on 60 sts on number 2 needles. K 4 ribs of garter st. Change to number 3 needles and k in stockinette st for 7½ inches; always k the 2 sts at each end of needle in garter st. Bind off 4 sts at each end of needle, and dec at end of needle on the next 4 rows (48 sts on needle). K in stockinette without dec for 3½ inches. Do not make garter sts at ends of these rows. K 32 sts and place on stitch holder or safety pin. Right shoulder—dec on the right side at the neck edge twice on the next 4 rows, k in stockinette for 4 rows.

Front—Inc 4 times on the next 4 k rows at the neck edge. Cast on 4 sts at the front and k 13 rows straight. Inc 3 times at sleeve edge on the next 4 rows; then cast on 4 sts at the same sleeve or underarm edge. K in stockinette st with garter st edge for underarm seam, the same length as back. Pick up sts along the front edge. Work 4 ribs of garter st across bottom and along front edge; inc before and after the corner st in each row for a mitered corner. Bind off on wrong side. It may be easier to use 3 needles when working the garter st band.

Duplicate Stitch

Work the other front in the same way, leaving the back neck sts on holder. Then when the fronts are done, pick up 52 sts around neck, including bands, fronts and back. K two ribs of garter st, bind off on wrong side.

Sc to beginning. Fasten off.

Sleeves -Pick up 22 sts at the center of the shoulder, turn, p across and pick up 2 more sts, turn, k across and pick up 2 sts, continue picking up 2 additional sts at each turn until the last 6 or 8 sts on each side under the arm which should be picked up at one time (52 sts). Work in stockinette st for 6½ inches to wrist edge—(always k the 2 sts at each end of needle in garter st). Dec on both sides every inch 5 times. Dec evenly at wrist edge 7 times (35 sts remaining). On number 2 needles, k 4 ribs on garter st and bind off on the wrong side.

Tatted Heart Insert

Here is a tatted design that would be especially nice for a blouse; arrange one or three motifs around the neck line. Also it can be used on guest towels as shown in the illustration. The white tatted motif on a colored towel would be very effective. It measures about 3¼ inches across. Use ball and shuttle.

Abbreviations: Ds (double stitch); r (ring); ch (chain); p (picot); cl r (close ring); rnd (round).

Start at top center of heart with a large r of 5 ds, p, 10 ds, p, 10 ds, p, 5 ds, cl r, turn. Tie ball thread to shuttle thread, ch 10, turn. R of 10 ds, p, 10 ds, cl r, turn. Ch 5, turn. R of 10 ds, join in first p of large r, 10 ds, cl r, turn. Ch 9 ds, turn. R of cl r. You are now ready to work up other side to top center, work same number of chs and rs, joining to correspond. When last ch is completed at top join in same p where rnd was started. Do not cut thread.

Next rnd: * Ch 6, p, 6 ds, join to next p, repeat from * around. Tie and cut thread.

A towel rack attached to the end of your ironing board will hold small pieces and save many steps.

10 ds, join in same p of large r, 10 ds, cl r, turn. Ch 9 ds, turn. R of 10 ds, p, 10 ds, cl r, turn. Ch 9 ds, turn. R of 10 ds, join in p of last r, 10 ds, cl r, turn. Make another r of 10 ds, join in second p of large r, 10 ds, cl r, turn. Ch 9 ds, turn. (Small r of 5 ds, p, 5 ds, cl r) twice, turn. Ch 9 ds, do not turn. R of 11 ds, p, 11 ds, cl r, turn (lower center of heart). R of 11 ds, join in same p of large r where last joining was made, 11 ds, cl r. You have now completed one half of heart center, continue working same number or rs and chs, joining to correspond with first side. When you reach top center, join last r to first r, turn, ch 10, cut and tie thread to base of large r.

Next rnd: Tie ball and shuttle threads to p between rs at top center, (ch 8 ds, p) 4 times, 8 ds, turn. R of 10 ds, join at base of third r, 10 ds, cl r, turn. Leave about 1/4 inch on shuttle thread to form a p. (Ch 8 ds, p) twice, 8 ds, turn. R of 10 ds, join in p where next two rs are joined, 10 ds, cl r, turn. Form a p, ch 8 ds, p, 8 ds, turn. ## Textile Printing the Batik Way

Julia M. Lupfer

For over 1,000 years the natives of Bali and Java have dressed themselves in highly decorative fabrics. The designs are applied to these fabrics by a method known as batik (pronounced bā-tēk'). This method dyes the design directly into the fabric and leaves the material with its original texture, and without stiffness.

Have you ever tried painting white flowers on a colored cloth? That is what started me on a search for a medium that would permit me to color the greater part of the cloth and leave the flowers white, yet retain the original softness of the fabric.

This batik technique consists of applying a design to the surface of the cloth by means of melted wax. The cloth is then placed in a dye bath. The waxed areas are resistant to the dye and when the wax is melted out, the "resist" areas remain the original color of the cloth.

The designs used by the natives of the East Indies are based upon conventional objects, shells, fruit, leaves, birds, and flowers. Cotton cloth is most generally used, although some silk fabrics take well to the batik method. The equipment and method used are simple and inexpensive. Necessary equipment includes: Frame, twill tape, pins, thumb tacks, batik wax (1/2 paraffin, 1/2 beeswax), brushes, all-purpose dye.

Carefully draw the design onto the fabric with pencil. Large, bold designs are best to achieve "South Sea's" characteristics.

The frame for waxing designs should be large enough to hold a good size working area of fabrics, yet small enough to maintain tension. An 18-inch square frame is about right. This frame can be made of common pine lumber (1-by-1-inch), mitered at corners and fastened with corrugated

When dry, remove wax by placing fabric between several thicknesses of newspaper, running a warm iron over it until wax is absorbed by newspapers.

Batik is not necessarily restricted to the use of single colors. Several related colors may be used. Starting with the lighter dye bath, when material is dry (do not remove wax), again stretch on frame. Cover areas of design that you wish to remain this lighter shade with wax. Submerge in darker dye bath.

Keep your designs bold and simple. Geometric designs, or stylized flowers, leaves and birds make delightful batik prints.

Cigar Box Treasure Chests

Recently I asked merchants who sell cigars to save the wooden boxes for me when they are empty. These come in various sizes. These I cover with a remnant of velvet, corduroy or any upholstery material. The choice of materials is endless, and remnants are inexpensive. First I cut a piece for the top of the cover, allowing enough to extend over edges. With pen or pencil I write, "My Treasures" diagonally, and embroider the words with heavy floss in a lighter color, a darker color if material is light. Then I neatly stretch and glue it on. I proceed all around the chest mitering corners carefully, also covering bottom. The inside I line with rayon or satin remnants. I buy the smallest hasp and padlock I can find and attach it. Children love them for odds and ends they treasure. Women want them for jewelry boxes. A tailored chest for a man is ideal for important papers. These chests sell for

Aunt Ellen's CLUB NOTES

What Clubs Are Doing

The money one club received from hulling and picking out walnut meats gave them enough cash to complete the furnishing of their club room in the local community center of their town. One club member had twenty-five quarts of nut meats to her credit. They bought drapes, table and chairs.

An interesting project that one Aunt Ellen club recently finished was the completion of the club's yearbook. It contained newspaper clippings of meetings, pictures, special accounts of various club activities and sundry other items. This is the third straight year they have made a scrap book or year book. These are usually retained by the secretary from year to year.

An interesting and instructive doll exhibit was displayed in a local store show window at Christmas time. The dolls were dressed depicting characters of different periods. Some members specialized on the hair, others on faces and some the clothes. All report they had lots of fun.

For an early spring meeting, one club plans to have a meeting on fitting and altering dress patterns. They have asked the sewing instructor of their local high school to give the demonstration.

St. Valentine's Day

The sending of valentines on St. Valentine's day observes one of the very special days of the year. This custom did not originate with St. Valentine; however, he probably would approve of sending messages of love and kindness with his name on them. Valentine's day is one of festivity, loving thoughts and kind feeling and not one of annoyance, as the so-called comic valentines convey. It is observed in more or less the same fashion that it was when first started, probably before the fourteenth century.

The beginning of this custom is not definite. However, there are several stories known that want to claim its origin. Not much is known about St. Valentine, except that he was a bishop who lived about 300 years after Lord Jesus was on earth. He was a martyr, so called because he admitted he was a Christian. During early times when Christianity was in its infancy, the Romans put to death all those who claimed they were Christians; St. Valentine was an early martyr.

The Romans held a feast each year in February which was known as "Lupercalia"—in honor of a god by the name of Lupercus. Lupercus watched and protected the shepherds and their flocks from the hordes of wolves that surrounded the wilderness of Rome. All Roman gods were honored with these special feast or ceremonial days. On this day, the names of all young women were placed in a box, then the young men drew the names by chance from the box. The name that each drew became his lady love.

The Christian priests wanted the people to forget their heathen gods; however the annual feast continued and was called St. Valentine's day because St. Valentine's birthday was about that time of year and the people wanted to commemorate his holy life.

The nature of the festival was changed by putting in the box names of saints and martyrs. The name that each person drew was his or her valentine and all were supposed to live the holy life of that person throughout the year.

But as the above custom changed, the names put in boxes were of living people instead of saints and became valentines. The sending of pretty tokens and messages in kind remembrance arose from this custom.

It used to be the custom for people to compose valentines, complete with verses. Now they are printed in great numbers. By comparison the valentines of today have hearts, cupids, flowers, verses, etc., much the same as those of olden times.

There are other stories about the origin of St. Valentine's day. Another is of country tradition that "usually this time of year the birds choose their combined to form a frilly, heart-shaped mat upon which to feature a ribbon bedecked potted plant with a colorful bloom, or an attractive arrangement of flowers and a pair of figurines. A valentine layer cake, baked in heart shaped pans, covered with fluffy pink icing, and placed on a silver plate in the middle of your nicest lace tablecloth, will make an unforgettable centerpiece, even though it disappears when refreshment time comes.

Recreation Hour

Reversed Verses — Type valentine rhymes on slips of paper, using carbon in reverse so that they will be backwards. Distribute these among your guests, and award a prize to the one who unscrambles hers first.

Have a valentine exchange, first providing time and material for everyone to make one. Much ingenuity may be employed in assembling the materials to be used as well as in putting them together. Cutouts from seed catalogs and used greeting cards, scraps of print material, wall paper samples, bits of ribbon and yarn, paper lace doilies and colored paper can be combined to achieve pretty and unusual results.

Great Men—For this game have each player make her own famous men, using the initials of each to begin modifiers describing that individual—"tamed all electricity" to describe Thomas A. Edison, "minus garments" for Mahatma Ghandi, "government workers" for George Washington, "awful long" for Abraham Lincoln, and so on. Have them read their descriptions aloud and the list having the most men identified in the shortest length of time is the winning one.

Famous Faces—Cut out and mount pictures of famous characters, contemporary or historical. Winner is the one who correctly identifies the most.

about 4 by 5 inches or desired size. Cut hearts from red paper using this as a guide. Cut the hole in the heart slightly larger than the bottom of nut cup so that it can be easily slipped in the heart. You may wish to cover the nut cup. To do this, cut crepe paper or other desired paper 1/2 inch wider than height of cup. Brush the outside of cup lightly with glue and place the paper around it. Let it extend over the top slightly, then press this down around the inside of cup. From white crepe paper, cut a strip about one inch wide for the ruffle. Twist the edge by holding paper between thumbs and index fingers, with one hand, twist the paper away from you and with the other hand twist it toward you. Place

In the Future

Make this shamrock pin cushion from scraps of felt. It measures about 2¾ inches in diameter. The model was made of red and black with green shamrock appliqued to top and a small red button fastened in center.

The round knitted doily measures fifteen to eighteen inches in diameter, depending on weight of thread used. It is lacy and quite attractive for a table.

Here is a rose motif shown as a scarf, but it could become a pretty vanity or chair set. The center is attractive if made in variegated colored thread to harmonize with your color scheme.

At a pair of earrings to match every costume. These are simple and easy to make. Stiffen with starch or clear nail polish.

The cross is crocheted in shell stitch. This is a good bazaar or gift item—always sells well and requires only a short time to make.

Please tell me how to take care of a house fern? Mrs. O. H., Pennsylvania.

I assume this question refers to a Boston fern. Ferns may be grown in almost any soil so long as it is well drained. They want lots of water and a little shade. All ferns love moisture and they can stand almost any amount of heat on top. But they do not like warm feet. So do not place them over radiators or steam pipes. Keep ferns at a temperature of 60 degrees or more in a well drained porous soil. Water them every day. They can use a little feed during the summer but none is needed during winter.

I am enclosing a leaf from a plant I have had for thirty-five years. It has bloomed once, twenty-five years ago. Would you tell me the name of this plant? Mrs. J. S., New York.

The plant is an Aspidistra, commonly called an iron plant. It is one of the toughest of all house plants. In early spring the plant should be taken from the pot, divided if necessary and repotted in rich heavy soil. Kept in a warm damp place it will produce many new eyes and by fall will start numerous new leaves. Then when it becomes potbound it will bloom again.

Beautifying millions of homes since 1910

Why do the leaves on my philodendron get yellow and have spots on them? I water them with eggshell water. Will a small amount of Vigoro in the water help this plant? Mrs. J. G., Kansas.

When a philodendron makes small leaves or stops growing it is primarily because of insufficient light coupled with high dry temperature. The more light a plant has the more heat it can stand. In well drained soil with plenty of light and fresh balmy warm air a philodendron should thrive without any special care or feed. Vigoro, eggshell water or any other feed cannot be substituted for light, heat, drainage and water.

I have a plant called a military plant which was growing nicely in a pot plunged in the ground outdoors. Before frost came I brought it inside. Within two weeks the leaves all began to fall off. I can find no insect. What could be the trouble? Mrs. W. G. S., New York.

The plant, a Pilea, is commonly known as an artillery plant. It is a tropical plant and the cool nights damaged the small succulent leaves even without frost. It is quickly damaged by low temperatures. If cut back hard new leaves will appear and in time a new plant can be had.

I transplanted some light pink chrysanthemums. In the new locations they were a deep rose color. Can you tell me the reason for this? Mrs. A. H., New York.

A chrysanthemum will vary in brilliance, or depth of color of the bloom, depending upon the food supply. An abundance of food deepens and brightens the flower color. When the chrysanthemum was transplanted it was probably placed in richer, better soil. Hence the darker color of the flowers.

I am sending a leaf of our gardenia to see if you can tell us what ails it. We have had two and they turn yellow and brown spots appear on the leaves. Then they die. Mrs. C. W. A., Washington.

The leaves show definite signs of chlorosis. Too much alkali, overwatering, a lack of iron or root nematodes will cause this condition. It is most likely this condition can be corrected by watering the plant heavily every ten days with water to which one ounce of iron sulphate has been added to each two gallons of water. This will acidify the soil, a very necessary condition for the successful growth of gardenias.

How can I start an African violet from a leaf? Mrs. L. B., Minnesota.

Select a firm mature leaf. Using a sharp knife cut the stem off at the base of the leaf and insert the leaf in a pot of clean coarse sand to a depth of half an inch. Several leaves may be planted in the same pot, just so long as they do not touch one another. Water the sand thoroughly to settle it around the base of the leaf. Place the potted leaf in a temperature of 65 to 70 degrees, out of drafts and keep the sand moderately moist. In about eight weeks small rosettes of new plants will appear. As soon as they are an inch tall they may be transplanted to two-inch pots. Several plants may be made from one rosette of leaves if they are pulled apart carefully.

Please tell me why my fuchsia plant dries up and the leaves drop off even though it gets water the same as other plants? R. A., Michigan.

The fuchsia has a natural rest period in late fall, lasting about six weeks. The old plant should be shaken out of the pot in September, cut back hard and repotted in new rich soil. After a time it will start up again and grow vigorously. If kept growing in the same soil without rest all winter, it will become straggly and weak.

I have a crown-of-thorns plant which is very large. Could I cut it down and try to start a new plant? Mrs. C. S., Ohio.

The crown-of-thorns, or Euphorbia, may be pruned back very hard and will break out with new shoots. But, better still, take a number of cuttings from the tips of the branches and pot them up directly in two-inch pots. They will root and make nice plants if kept in a warm place with plenty of light and not too much water.

I have a baby rose plant which I keep in the house. It gets a sort of white fuzz on the leaves and before the leaves are full size they dry up. The plant just doesn't grow. What can I do for this? Mrs. G. S., Wisconsin.

The baby rose you have is probably the rose rouletti. It has a tendency to mildew. The mildew looks like white mould. Dusting with sulphur dust regularly will control mildew. Also, place the plant in a lighter place and so far as possible keep the foliage dry.

My freesia plants have bloomed and now seem to be drying or ripening off. What do I do now? Mrs. L. E. W., Nebraska.

Freesias, which have been grown in pots, should be given less and less water until they are completely dried off. Then the bulbs should be shaken from the soil. The large bulbs should be saved and the small ones thrown away. The large bulbs stored in a cool dry place may be planted again next winter.

Could I grow a water lily in a small tub on my back porch in almost full sun? Mrs. R. H. P., Kentucky.

A half barrel or a tub at least two feet in diameter is as small a container as can comfortably accommodate a water lily plant. The best ones for growing in a container of this size are the hardy day blooming ones such as pygmy white, or yellow, or Nymphaea ladakeri, pink.

I am enclosing leaves from my ivy vine. Can you tell me what is on these leaves and what I should do before the whole plant is infected? Mrs. J. K., Missouri.

The spots on the under side of the ivy leaves are soft scale. As these scales become older they build up a black covering over themselves and stick very tight to the leaf. Unless they are destroyed they will kill the ivy. Regular spraying with a spray containing D.D.T. will control this scale. Detex is such a spray. Used at the rate of 1 tablespoonful to a gallon of water it will soon clean up the ivy. Or the plant may be sprayed or dipped in an oil spray such as Volck. However, an oil spray should not be used often. Once every three months is about as often as it is safe to spray with such sprays.

Grow Ming Trees

While it is true that "Only God can make a tree," it is also a fact that centuries ago the Chinese managed to cultivate a man-made replica of God's magnificent large trees. They developed dwarf or miniature trees and called them "Ming Trees" in deference to the Ming Dynasty—emperors of the orient at that time. So very few people in this country however, have ever seen LIVING MING TREES, that they are prone to confuse them with the imitation mings built out of bark and moss and then painted to resemble the genuine dwarfed trees.

Today these dwarfs, identical copies of the large trees, so familiar to us all, are finding a new place in the western world. Thousands of folks who love to grow things are raising living, fruit bearing or evergreen trees, which are exact replicas of their larger brothers in every detail. In shape, foliage, trunk structure, fruits and blossoms, these midgets duplicate the normal size trees in everything but size—the miniatures never attain a height of more than ten to fifteen inches. Like their oriental ancestors, these tiny Ming Trees can live to be hundreds of years old. As decorations both for interiors and the garden, they are particularly beautiful and breath-taking in their unique appeal.

Several years ago, a resident of California, who was in the orient, learned the secret of dwarfing trees in the Chinese manner, a process which had always been closely guarded. For centuries these secrets were unobtainable to anyone outside the select circle of Chinese and Japanese horticulturists. Upon returning home, this enthusiast started to grow the fascinating little trees for personal pleasure. It wasn't long, however, until everyone who saw them became equally enthused and wanted to buy them.

While in the orient, our friend learned to dwarf any type of tree and has shared this knowledge with many, many people. The method was found simple enough for anyone to undertake; it requires no special experience. The entire procedure is a combination of natural soils with fertilizers in correct proportion, with the addition of highly important root treatment and control. No temperature control is required, as is necessary with the raising of delicate flowers, we are told, and these miniatures can be raised on a window sill in the ordinary apartment, on the back porch or in the average garden. Growers have found the dwarfs a hardy lot and say that they require a minimum amount of attention and care. They mature in a couple of years and flower and bear magnificent fruit, about the size of a pea, all in perfect proportion to the size of the tree.

Luncheon Set

The pattern of this luncheon set is lacy and very pretty. It has a long centerpiece that measures about 12½ x 29 inches. Each place mat is 12 x 16 inches. ## Heart Earrings

A cluster of tatted hearts makes these earrings very unusual and flattering to wear. Stiffening them with boiled sugar water helps them hold their shape, also makes the picots lie flatter; or clear nail polish may be used. When completed, each measures about  $\frac{7}{8}$  of an inch in diameter. These were made of red tating thread. A small pink bead is glued to center of each. Metal or plastic earring backs can be used. These can be obtained at jewelry counters in variety stores or from craft supply companies.

Abbreviations: Ch (chain); r (ring); p (picot); ds (double stitch); cl r (close ring).

To begin, make a r of 6 ds, 2 small p separated by 6 ds, 6 ds, join to last small p, 6 ds, small p, 6 ds, cl r. ## Lacy Leaf Doily

Have you been wanting to make a pretty round lacy doily? Here is an answer to just such a need. Use size 30 mercerized crochet thread and a number 11 crochet hook. The doily measures about 13 inches in diameter. Three of these would make a nice buffet set.

Abbreviations: Rnd (round); ch (chain); st (stitch); sl st (slip stitch); lp (loop); sk (skip); sc (single crochet); p (picot); dc (double crochet); tr (treble)—thread over hook twice, work off 2 lps at a time; tr tr (triple treble)—thread over 4 times, work off 2 lps at a time.

Leaves—Ch 15, sc in second st from hook and in each st to end, 3 sc in end ch, sc in each st on opposite side of ch, 3 sc in end st. Working in back lp of sc only, sc in each sc to 4th from tip, * ch 1, turn, sc in each sc to center st at base of leaf, always make 3 sc in the center or end sc, sc in each sc up other side to 4th from tip, repeat from * until 3 points are made on each side of leaf, sl st to base of leaf after last point is made. Fasten off.

The side sections of leaf are made in the same manner except make 3 points on top side, 2 points on under or bottom side. Sew or sl st one under section of leaf on each side of a center section—join about 6 sts.

Center—Ch 10, sl st in first ch to form a ring.

Rnd 1: Ch 3 for a dc, 23 more dc in ring, join with sl st in top of ch 3 first made.

Rnd 2: Ch 1, sc in same place with sl st, sc in next dc, ch 4, sl st back in last sc for a p, (sc in each of next 3 dc, p) 7 times, sc in remaining dc, sl st in first sc made.

Pillowcases With Boy Appeal

Edith Lang

Have you tried to buy pillowcases for genuine boys? There is nothing available except fancy embroidered, or pastel colored ones. Patterns have the same shortcomings; nothing very suitable for a boy's room. I struggled with the problem of white pillowcases and how quickly they became soiled, necessitating a change far oftener than I liked. This made a lot of ironing. Finally I thought of a solution that would save washing, ironing and also be very suitable for boys' rooms.

I had some bright blue Indian head material. I thought if pastel pillowcases were in style, why not bright colored ones for boys, and the Indian head material would be soft and practically never wear out. This is how I made them.

Since the material was 36 inches wide, I used the width of the material for the length of the pillowcase. After I put in a 2-inch hem and sewed it up on the opposite end, it was just the right length for a pillowcase. I measured off 42 inches of material; this gave me a piece of material 42 by 36 inches. These measurements are for my pillows which are 21 inches wide. If your pillows are of a different size just use twice the width of your pillow and have your material long enough so that after you put a hem in, it will still be long enough to cover up your pillow. I then folded it lengthwise, selvage to selvage and seamed one end and the selvage edges. Then I put a 2-inch hem in the other end. This made a plain bright colored pillowcase that would be very hard to show soil, and would save a lot of washing and ironing.

These pillowcases may be decorated in many different ways. Keep your decorations appropriate for boys. For one I used bright red rick-rack, and for another one I used bright yellow rick-rack. Each boy knew which pillowcase was his by the color of the braid. I turned the pillowcase right side out, and sewed the rick-rack on top of the hem stitching. This made a border about 2 inches from the edge.

Since I started to make boys' pillowcases for real boys, I have found that many different types of material may be used. I use colors that will show the least soil; also cowboy prints. In other words, I use any kind of print that is suitable for a boy's room. I made some with a western print. Of course I didn't put any trimming on these, because they were colorful enough. If you had a plain print you could use a western print for a border. In this way remnants of material could be used.

Making pillowcases for boys led me to making curtains suitable for boys' rooms. I like a plain tailored type for their rooms. I used print to match their pillowcases combined with a plain material. I made two pairs of sash curtains; one pair for the top half of the window and one pair for the bottom half of the window. I used white feed sacks for the plain material. From the white material I cut two pieces 17 by 19 inches for the top; and two pieces 19 by 23 inches for the bottom. I then tore strips of printed material 4 inches wide, and sewed these on the edges of the white material that would be in the middle of the window. Lay the right side of the print to the wrong side of the plain material. Sew a seam, then turn the right side of the print to the right side of the plain material. Turn under a seam allowance and sew it down on the first seam. This will make a border of double thickness. I have a machine with a zig-zag stitch and I use it to make these curtains. I sew bias tape on the outside edges of the curtains. Match the color to the print material.

For the top sash curtains I tear a strip of print material 8 inches wide, and long enough to sew to the top of these curtains. With the right sides of the plain material and print material together, seam along the top edge. I press the print material towards the top, then turn the material to the wrong side and turn under a hem of three inches. I then stitch 1½ inches from the top, to this make a casing for the rod and a small heading in the top print border.

For the bottom of these top sash curtains, I tear a strip 4 inches wide. I sew this strip onto the bottom of the plain material, press it down towards the bottom and put a one-half-inch hem in it. This finishes the top sash curtains.

The bottom sash curtains are made almost in the same way, except I do not make a heading. I just turn under 1½ inch for the casing for the rod. On some I do not put a border on the top of the bottom sash and on others I add a small border if I am short of plain material. I use the four-inch strip on the inside edge, sewed the same as the top sash curtains. I sew tape on the outside edge and the four-inch strip on the bottom.

There are many variations to these pillowcases and curtains. The more you make, the more ideas you will get to suit your own boys and your own special window. There is one variation that I like, especially when I use white feed sacks for my plain material. Have your boy collect all his friends' and classmates' names in their own handwriting. Have them write quite large. Then trace their names hit and miss on the white part of the curtains, and embroider them in a bright color matching the print material. If there is red in your western print, embroider the names in red. These curtains really make a hit with the boys.

If you start making your own boys' pillowcases and curtains, you will find them very practical, economical and in the words of one of my boys as he rested his weary head on a western pillowcase—"Boy! These sure are spiffy."

Tailored-to-Measure Lingerie Boxes

Mrs. James E. Pence

Unable to fit satin-covered hose, glove and hanky boxes into the off-sized drawers of a chest-on-chest inherited with a furnished apartment, I decided to make them to fit. A casual shopping of department stores supplied boxes of various shapes, which I fitted into the drawers for the greatest convenience, accessibility, and economy of space. By using masking tape freely at the corners and ends I could cut the near-fits to fit nicely.

Covered in quilted taffeta (or satin) to match the decor of the bedroom they were so pretty and practical I decided to make hose-type boxes for panties and bras and large flat ones for slips and gowns. The latter can be stacked tray-wise to save space and provide perfect division and order in lingerie drawers.

My tailored--to-measure accessory boxes attracted the attention of friends who began to request them color-keyed and made to fit their needs. Single boxes or matching sets make nice gifts for many occasions, especially since the big flat ones and large divided ones cannot be bought in stores.

All flat boxes are $1.00 and divided ones $1.25, which allows a wide margin of profit for the time spent. Quilted satin and taffeta I pick up at remnant counters when possible. Rarely do I have difficulty in finding boxes. The only other materials required are: a good quality of paste, heavy white bond paper, thin cardboard, masking tape and thread.

To make the divider for a hosiery box the strip of cardboard is bent on each marked line (as in the picture) and the perpendicular folds are held together with masking tape.

The flat boxes are very simple to cover. Side surfaces are coated with paste and covered with a strip of material cut as long as the perimeter of the box and as wide as both the in and out sides, with generous allowance for lap-under at the inside and outside bottom. These edges are fastened with masking tape. Heavy white bond paper is cut to fit and pasted to the outside bottom for a finish. A loosely fitting piece of cardboard is cut for the inside bottom, coated with paste and covered with material, the edges of which lap under and are taped. This flat covered piece is securely pasted into the bottom of the finished box.

The only difficult step is the construction and covering of the dividers for the hose-type boxes. A box 4" by 14" by 2" planned for seven spaces will require a strip of cardboard 3½" by 38" divided and marked off into nineteen equal parts slightly short of two inches each. Trim end of cardboard if necessary. It is bent on each marked line as shown in photograph. The perpendicular folds are held together by tape down each side. The material strip is cut to allow a ½" lap at sides and ends, marked off into two-inch sections, folded with right sides together (just as the cardboard is) and sewed with thread where tape was used on the cardboard. Seams are trimmed and the "pockets" turned to the right side. The taped perpendicular dividers will fit into them. The lap allowance at the ends and sides is turned under and secured with tape. The completed divider is then pasted into the bottom of the finished box.

With seams trimmed and "pockets" turned right side out, the cover is fitted over the cardboard piece by slipping the "pockets" over the perpendicular dividers.

Place all small pieces of laundry in a pillowslip as you remove them from the line. Saves time when sprinkling.

A pinch of borax in empty fruit jars before they are stored combats that musty odor.

JEWELRY MAKING FOR FUN AND PROFIT

Helen Clegg and Mary Larom
(159 pages; illustrated; David McKay Co., Inc., New York, N. Y.; $3.00)

There is a sort of enchantment about this book by Helen Clegg and Mary Larom to which only a very dull soul indeed can remain impervious. Imbued themselves with an enthusiasm based on a record of definite achievement in their field, the authors invest the hobby of making jewelry from wire with a glamour that in no way detracts from its obviously sound practicality. They point out in their introductory chapter that anyone, regardless of aptitude or talent, can learn to twist wire into attractive, interesting forms that make unusual additions to a costume jewelry collection. They say, in effect, that "another thing that goes toward making this a popular hobby is the fact that you start producing right away. There are no long practice exercises, no tools to set up, no machines to fiddle with. If you can handle the simplest tools—a screw driver, an egg beater—you can make this jewelry and get results at the first lesson."

In the way of implements one needs only a pair of nippers, a couple of pairs of pliers, a file, and some copper wire. As a matter of fact, the problem of necessary materials is so simple that some women carry them with them in their knitting bags and, at an informal tea party, settle themselves comfortably and begin fashioning jewelry with the same ease and unconcern that they would exhibit if they were knitting a pair of socks.

The one point stressed most strongly by the authors is the importance of studying the first ten chapters of their book in the order in which they appear. They have chosen designs in those chapters that involve progressively more complicated techniques but they say that none of these techniques is difficult if approached in the manner they recommend. Much of the charm and persuasiveness of the book is due to the fact that one can't help believing that they are right. It all looks beautifully simple. As a matter of fact, it all looks beautiful. Beginning with the coiled Egyptian bracelet with matching earrings in the second chapter and carrying right on through to the pendants, rings, and necklaces that use balls, beads, and buttons as added attractions that one finds in the final chapters, all the jewelry described is distinctive and lovely.

For those readers interested in combining profit with pleasure there is an informative chapter at the end of the book entitled "Pricing and Selling Your Jewelry." In it the authors instruct one how to arrive at a fair price for one's work. They discuss the proper wholesale price, the agent's commission, and the retail price. Then they discuss the most successful ways to sell one's work. There is definitely money to be made from wire jewelry but one should weigh every aspect of the situation carefully before embarking on the business seas.

A final chapter is directed to teachers. Here, among other things, the authors recommend particularly that if one is going to teach shut-ins or bed patients one should go prepared with plenty of material and plenty of ideas. They also suggest that one let the students start making their own designs as soon as they have made their first piece because in that way they not only learn a great deal about the properties and characteristics of wire but they also develop their imagination and creative impulses, and that way fun and possibly fortune lie.
